11 people shot in Detroit on Saturday, 1 fatally

(Detroit Free Press) - In two separate incidents, 11 people were shot in Detroit in a matter of hours Saturday, one fatally. Ten people were shot at a block party on a basketball court at Webb and Dexter on the city's west side Saturday night. One of those victims died. Police do not know the reason for the shooting, and are still investigating. At least three of the victims who were shot were women, ages 30, 45, and 26. Asst. Chief Steve Dolunt said it's a miracle no children were shot as many were present during the shooting. As of 10 p.m. Saturday, police were not releasing the identity of the person who was killed. A 46-year-old man is also in critical condition and two other men, 21 and 26 years old, are in serious condition. Dolunt said police do not know the reason for the shooting and thus far people at the party were not being cooperative with police seeking information. He said there was no excuse for shooting when kids were present. There were little kids and strollers, he said. "It's a party," he said. "I think one individual was the target the others just happened to be at this party," Dolunt said. One person was detained for questioning, but no suspects are in custody, said Sgt. Cassandra Lewis, public information officer for the police department. One person remained in critical condition late Saturday night; all other victims had non-life threatening injuries, she said.

Significant Events – International

Somalia jihadists al-Shabab launch Mogadishu attack

(BBC) - The Somali jihadist group al-Shabab has launched a major attack in the country's capital Mogadishu. A suicide bomb exploded near the national intelligence headquarters on Sunday morning. The sound of heavy gunfire was reported from the area. Government officials say that they have "foiled the attack" and four militants are dead. The militants have vowed to intensify attacks during the Muslim fasting month of Ramadan, which began on Wednesday. Al-Shabab claims to have killed several intelligence officers inside the building, something the government denies. Interior ministry spokesman Mohamed Yusuf said security forces had successfully repulsed the attackers. "They were trying to storm the premises but they have been taken out before they reached their objective. There was no casualty on our side," he told reporters. Bodies of al-Shabab militants were shown to the media. Witnesses reported a loud explosion signaling the start of the fighting. "There was a heavy explosion and in seconds heavy gunfire broke out. We cannot go outside the house because of the shooting," local resident Abdulahi Yare told the AFP news agency. Security in the country has improved but al-Shabab still attacks Mogadishu regularly. The group has targeted the intelligence headquarters before.

Active Weather Warnings, Watches and Advisories by County: http://www.wrh.noaa.gov/sto/brief/www_bc_cal.php

WEATHER

WEATHER SYNOPSIS BY REGION:

NORTHERN CALIFORNIA AND CENTRAL COASTAL AREAS:

Eureka Weather:

Stubborn onshore flow will allow some low clouds to persist along the immediate northwest California coast each night and morning into next week. Farther inland, seasonable temperatures are expected today but highs will gradually increase to well above normal by the end of the week. Thunderstorm chances will increase over the weekend.

Medford Weather:

A weak upper level disturbance is bringing increased cloud cover to extreme northern California. There is some precipitation with these clouds, but the atmosphere below them is too dry for any of the precipitation to make very far down, and none is expected to reach the surface let alone measure.

Reno Weather:

A low pressure system will move into the West Coast today and produce gusty winds and potentially dangerous fire conditions. After a brief cool down early this week, hot and dry weather will continue for most of the week as high pressure develops over the west.

San Francisco Weather:

Cooler conditions are expected today and Monday as onshore flow increases. High pressure will then build over California from Tuesday through the end of the week resulting in a warming trend, but mainly across inland areas. Dry weather is forecast to continue through the week.

CENTRAL CALIFORNIA AND SOUTHERN SAN JOAQUIN VALLEY:

Sacramento Weather:

Conditions are expected to be cooler today and Monday with daytime highs slightly below normal. Warming trend begins midweek bringing another round of hot weather Thursday into the weekend.

Hanford Weather:

High pressure will continue to bring dry conditions and above normal temperatures today. A subtle cooling trend will take place over central California during the first half of the week before temperatures warm again beginning Wednesday.

WEATHER

WEATHER SYNOPSIS BY REGION:

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA:

Los Angeles Weather:

High pressure aloft will continue to bring hot temperatures to inland areas through today with triple digit highs possible for the Antelope Valley and foothills. The upper high will move east with weak low pressure and gradual cooling expected through the middle of next week. Gradual warming is expected late this week and Saturday as upper level high pressure starts to move in again. Marine layer clouds will affect the coastal areas during the night and morning hours.

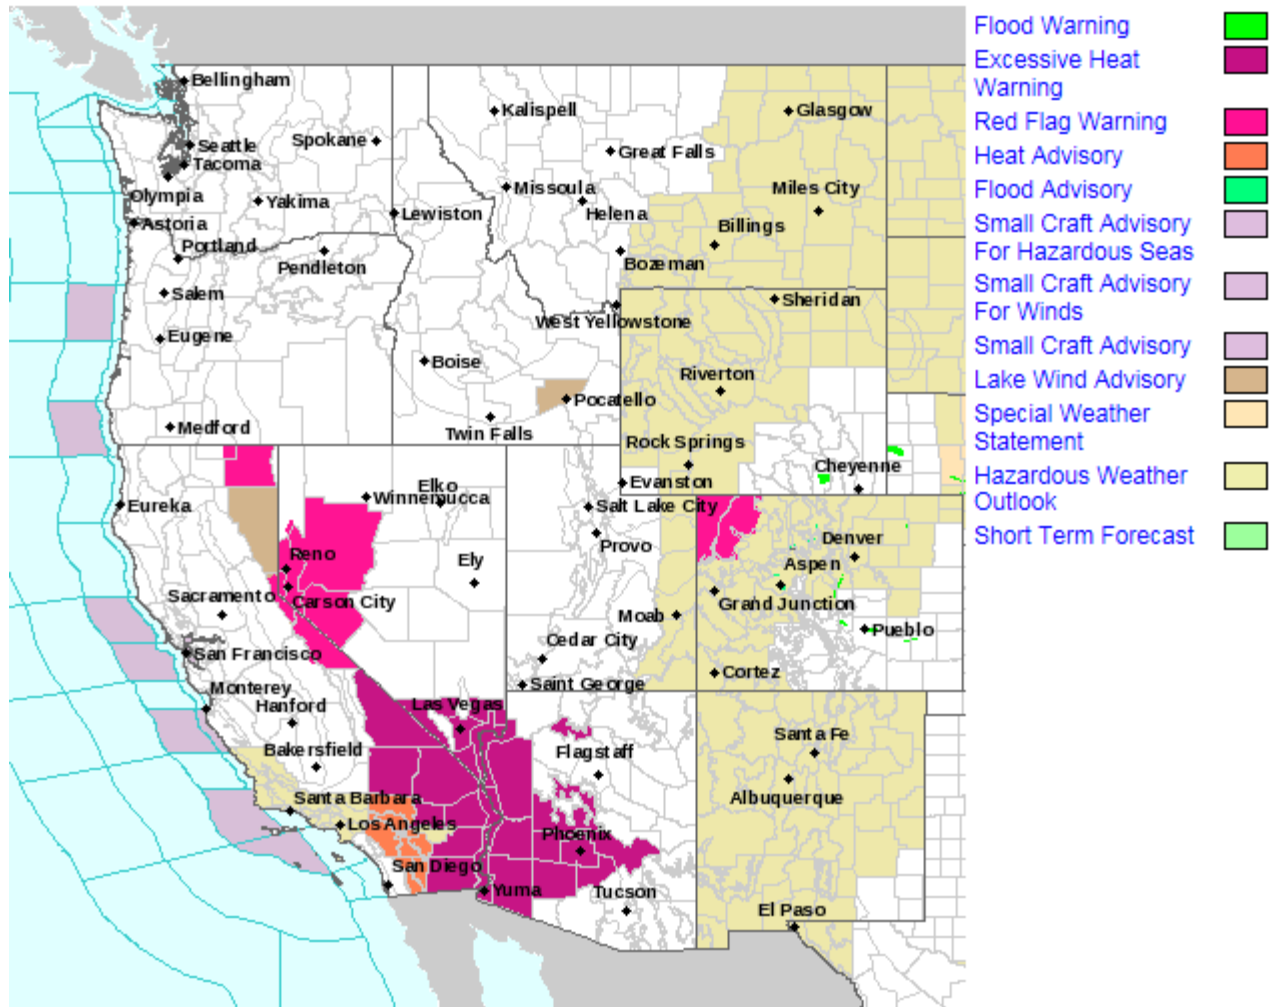

Extreme Southwestern California including Orange, San Diego, Western Riverside and Southwestern San Bernardino Counties:

Hot weather for inland areas will continue, although not quite as hot as the last several days. High pressure aloft will weaken slightly and the marine layer will extend cooler coastal air a little farther inland this coming week.

Southeast California Weather:

The heat wave will continue into the coming week, but some minor relief will occur as some increasing moisture will help to keep temperatures a bit lower than last week. More significant increases in moisture, along with lower temperatures, are expected later next week beginning Thursday.
